

From: Michelle Heiringdpm <heiringdpm@att.net>
Date: Wed, 18 Apr 2018 12:50:38 -0500
Subject: Thanks
To: mail@ahs6.com

I am a physician and have access to some good colloidal products, but these are superb. I have suffered from heavy bleeding and spotting for over five years, have diagnosed myself with two cancers and have had to admit myself for blood transfusions when the bleeding was excessive. I am fairly certain it is not premenopausal nor fibroids and my uterus does not need to be ripped out. It is terrible what we do to people! The doctors think I have metastatic cancer and then they see that I do not. I have several other symptoms that all point to hypothyroidism. But, the allopathic doctors think this could not be. I usually have normal blood levels with symptoms, what I call subclinical. Knowing that most of our medical problems are from chronic inflammation. (I said that 20 years ago in medical school and they thought I had three heads.) and deficiencies, my basic feeling on it all is that well, Literally, I let myself get worn out. I have had low thyroid symptoms since my residency. But, no one listens and I am strong and try not to complain. Do I need to have a football jutting out of the side of my neck for someone to recognize the problem? And, I think there is more hypothyroidism in this country than we claim to commit to. Although Dr. Joel Wallace thinks all doctors are bad, I am a podiatrist, I do push supplements, etc for my patients and anyone I care about who wants to be well. He is not wrong. I am an exception to the rule, for that I am sure. Most doctors are self serving at best. I am going to supplement my cats too. I have one who is sickly□. And, my oldest is with some pain and I believe insulin resistant. I am not one to take them to the vet. I am from the farm and should be able to figure them out. Besides, the vets have come over to the dark side of the medical industry too. At least here in the city.

Keep up the good work and I will say that I am feeling better. It is a Matter of seeing how things go month to month. But, I do see improvement and even though I am not always for feeling better right away or not, I will say, I did notice a change within the first week. I have been taking large amounts since I have been sooooo deficient. My pica has been curbed, still present at times, but much better. I have just one other symptom that is still present, but I think it is lessening. Hard to tell when it waxes and wanes normally.

Have a beautiful day!

Dr. Heiring